Merton L. Kimball, who is getting copies of the Masonic Grand Lodge proceedings of the United States, recently wrote to J. J. Rolfe of Nevada City, California, for a copy of the Grand Lodge proceedings for that state for 1830 to 1834. Secretary Rolfe sent the copies and requests that they be returned provided other copies are sent him. These copies are very scarce, only two sets known to be in existence. Mr. Rolfe says "I send them because I am a native of Oxford county, having first made my appearance in the town of Rumford on the 26th day of September, 1826."
Mr. Rolfe was made a member of the E. K. Kane Lodge, No. 72, in California in January, 1835, and afterwards affiliated with Nevada Lodge, No. 13, of which he has been a member for many years.

Wedding Bells.
A pleasant home wedding occurred Monday evening, April 27, at the residence of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Greene, at Norway Center, the contracting parties being Albert S. Dingley, a well-known business man of Augusta, and Alice May Raymond, a highly esteemed lady from Richmond.
The ring service was used, and the nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Caroline E. Angell of Norway. The ceremony was performed under an arch of princess pine filled in with sprays of trailing arbutus, while in the rear of the arch were banks of potted plants and evergreen.
Mr. Dingley's father, a florist owning one of the largest greenhouses in the State, and making a specialty of raising pinks and roses, sent handsome flowers. The bride was beautifully gowned in pure white mercerized lace, carrying a large bouquet of bride's roses. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Edith George from Fitchburg, Mass., a sister of the bride.
After the ceremony dainty refreshments were served, and a social evening with music was enjoyed.
The next morning, Mr. and Mrs. Dingley left Norway for a short wedding trip, amidst a shower of old shoes and wishes for their future happiness. The happy couple are to reside in Augusta, and will begin housekeeping soon.

Playing Winning Ball.
Norway High School Team Begins Season by Defeating Two Strong Teams.
On the afternoon of Fast Day a very close and interesting game of ball was played between the Norway High School and the Paris High School teams. The teams were evenly matched, and the game was very close until the latter part of the eighth inning when Norway secured five runs and a lead that Paris was unable to overcome.
The game was largely battery work, both pitchers being very steady and keeping the ball under good control. The batting was good, each man on Norway getting at least one run. The detailed score:

In the morning the high school second team was defeated by a team representing the shoe factory by the score of 18 to 3. Batteries, Silver, Woodsum and Wentzel, Flood, Boynton and Mixer. There was a good attendance.

Saturday afternoon the high school boys again crossed bats with the boys of Gould Academy. The game was hardly close enough to be interesting, but the Norway team put up some good playing. The game was called at the close of the sixth by mutual consent.
The visitors were clearly out-classed and at no time did they stand the least show of winning. Their only run was on a wild throw to first. The ending of Gould was ragged, but the good work of the Norway team, as shown by the box, and his successor Brooks almost met the same fate. Purrington at short put up a fine game.
The batting work of the home team was an excellent feature of the game for Norway. Whitman in the box had Gould at his mercy. His support was almost perfect. The score:

An Educational Tour of New England.
W. G. Whitman of the Gloucester, Mass., High School has planned what might be called a Travelling Summer School. This will be chiefly a bicycle trip, though parts of it where roads are bad will be by train and stage. The purpose of the proposed trip must of course be to give the boys a wider acquaintance with the country, and to give them a knowledge of the physical and moral development of the people. The studies taken up will not be from books, but at first hand, studies of the places, of the history, of the literature, of the influence of natural surroundings, nature, geological and geographical features. Several manufacturing plants will be visited to learn of New England's industries. New England is so rich in places of historic interest, in the variety of scenery and in her industries that the proposed trip must of course be of great value to any young person. Only boys of good moral character will be allowed on the trip. The boys are expected to respond to friendly counsel. Orderly and gentlemanly conduct will be required. The Sabbath will be observed as a day of rest and attendance at church service is desired. This trip is planned for July and may be repeated in August. The party is limited to ten boys.
Mr. Whitman is a Norway boy, the son of George W. Whitman of our village.
Dr. B. F. Bradbury is to build a cottage this summer in the pine woods on the Norway Lake road, at the corner of the Pike Hill road. He is having a road built to the cottage.
The street sprinkler made its first appearance on the street for Abraham's Tuesday. It has been repainted and is in good order. A bright yellow body with red wheels and running gear.
Tuesday evening, an election of a second lieutenant was held by Company B, to fill a vacancy caused by resignation of Wilfred Perkins. The ballot resulted in the unanimous choice of Sergt. Geo. A. Wilson, Jr.

Uncle "Pam" Sessions Dead.
Pembroke S. Sessions died at Lake View Farm, last Wednesday morning, aged 87 years. He had been in feeble health for some months but able to be about and do some work, in fact he worked more or less Friday and Saturday of last week.
The deceased had made his home with A. W. Thomas since 1894, when his wife died, who was a relative of Mrs. Thomas' mother, Mrs. Hovey of Andover.
Mr. Sessions came from Providence, R. I., to Andover over 40 years ago and made his home in that town until he came to Norway with Mr. Thomas some two years ago. For 12 years prior to 1894 Mr. and Mrs. Sessions had charge of the Lake View House at South Arm of the Richardson lake, where they entertained numerous summer tourists and sportsmen, who entertained a pleasant memory of Mother Sessions, as Mrs. S. was called, and Uncle Pam.
Mr. and Mrs. Sessions had one daughter, who married Chas. H. Marston of South Paris but died some time ago. The deceased leaves a sister, Mrs. Hannah Corbett of Boston, and a brother in Providence, R. I.
He was taken to Andover for burial in the family lot this week Thursday.

Arbor Day.
I think we may rightly assume the article in the ADVERTISER of April 24th, on the observance of Arbor day touched a subject of interest to every citizen of the village, if not of the town, nothing enriches the beauty and adds to the comfort of a town more than well kept lawns and an abundance of ornamental trees. A suggestion as to the manner in which trees may be given to the coming generations may not be out of place.
A town in which the writer formerly lived boasted a village improvement society. This society met at certain stated times, and talked and talked and then went home, to meet and talk again. After some years of this important business, viz., telling what ought to be done, and what the town was failing to do, it was one night decided by unanimous vote to talk less and set a few trees on the common, even though the society itself must needs do some real work—a thing many societies have nothing to do with.
And true to their vote, they began the agitation of the matter among the people of the town, meeting with first success. They were to all they asked. Farm-ers' trees were offered to contribute all that were needed; others would give a day's work or a load of dressing to enrich the soil, until the croakers and men who thought the "Centre" had all more than it needed, were drawn into line and agreed to join in the good work, or to give a tree every one is so fond of, is seriously ill.
A day was appointed for the work to be done, and sixty-two carefully selected trees were set under the direction of two men who understood the secret of tree planting. And all without the cost of a penny.
The trees selected were rock maples and elms of good size. The larger the tree, the harder and thrifter it proved to be. One elm, to correspond with one on an opposite corner, required a two-horse team to draw it from the mill. Of the sixty-two trees set, but three or four needed replacing the following year, and two more the second year.
Might not such a plan be worked successfully in Norway?
Give the merchants and farmers, the lawyers and doctors, a holiday in which they may plant a tree that they can call their own. Then they will be interested in the trees themselves, and will see that they are cared for and preserved.

The Norway Center school has an entertainment and fair raising at the schoolhouse, Friday evening, May 8th. If rainy it will be postponed until Saturday evening, the 9th.
The brick work on Allard & Moulton's new cottage was completed, Tuesday, and work will be begun on the framing next week, by George D. Swift, who has the contract to build.
Morrill M. Fuller has been reappointed building inspector. There is little question that a large part of Norway's recent immunity from great fires is due to the efficient work done by the building inspector.
R. B. Gould and family of Otisfield have moved into their new home on Alpine street recently bought of John Hayes. Mr. Gould has sold his Otisfield farm, stock and tools to his son-in-law, Chas. B. Grover.
John Foley has let his house on Sumner street and is taking a boarding for a while. Later he will perhaps take a trip to Woburn, Mass., to visit his sister, Mrs. Barbara Shiquin, who has lately visited him at Norway.
The teachers of Norway suggest that before hanging pictures in the school-rooms that the committee of the clubs at least visit the different rooms and see what the teachers have already done in the line of picture hanging.
Mrs. Verne M. Whitman has been visiting relatives in New York for about a week. Her sister, Claudine Maloney, who is studying music in Westbrook Seminary, took her place in the Universalist choir, Sunday.
Morrill N. Packard, a former Norway boy, is taking a prominent place in the politics of Baltimore, Md. He is president of the Crescent Club that recently passed resolutions indorsing all the candidates on the Democratic ticket in that city.
"A Trip to the Orient," the lecture by Thomas Jones, given under the auspices of the Norway high school, class '04, is at the Congregational church, instead of the Norway Opera House, as stated last week. This is Thursday evening, April 30.
Norway band have re-engaged quarters in the Norway Steam Laundry building until fall. The men are making progress that is gratifying in their rehearsals Monday evenings, and this season's work will not suffer by comparison with that of preceding years.
Mrs. John Burnham of Portland was here Sunday and was much pleased to visit Norway again. Wednesday she went to Otisfield for a visit before returning to the Forest city. Mr. Burnham has been here about a week, repairing and painting his buildings on Beal street.

Old Ladies' Home.
We understand funds nearly sufficient to secure title to the Horne Homestead have been subscribed and it is expected that the deed will pass from the Savings Bank to the subscribers the latter part of next week. Subscriptions can be paid at the Savings Bank for which receipts will be given pending the conveyance, or to Mrs. Abbie L. Horne, each subscriber to receive title in proportion to the amount of subscription.
It now looks very probable that the Old Ladies' Home will be established. It is a praise worthy undertaking and should succeed.
Public Library Meeting.
The annual organization meeting of the Board of Management of Norway Public Library was held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the assessors' office. The officers were elected as follows:
President—J. A. Roberts.
Vice-pres.—B. S. Rideout.
Sec.—Wm. C. Leavitt.
Treas.—E. F. Fletcher.
Mrs. Leavitt was chosen in place of M. L. Kimball who declined to serve. The executive and purchasing committee have not yet been appointed. It was voted to instruct the executive committee to secure a librarian. Opening hours were established 9 to 12 and 1 to 6 and also three evenings per week one of which shall be Saturday.
W. L. Larry of Boston has been visiting his uncle, Charles L. Hathaway, esq., of this town. Mr. Larry is an engineer on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Larry, who is a sister to Mrs. Hathaway. They returned to Boston Wednesday.
Hon. Eugene F. Smith and wife celebrated the second anniversary of their marriage last Friday evening by giving a party to a few friends. There were two tables of whist and choice refreshments were served. The guests presented the host and hostess with two volumes of Will Carleton's poems which pleased them much.
W. J. Andrews of Boston is canvassing Norway for subscribers to the Tabard Inn library. The book exchange will be at the Noyes Drug Store and will be established as soon as possible after the list is made out. The Tabard Inn is a branch of the Booklovers' library and the latest books are placed within reach of the subscribers.
Selden C. Foster has hired the John Rhodes house on the south side of Pike's Hill and will move his family there soon for the summer. Mr. Foster has had a great deal of sickness in the family this year, and hopes that the change will benefit them all. At present, Cyril, the bright little boy, has every one is so fond of, is seriously ill.
Mrs. Mary A. Tarr of Lynn, Mass., is visiting her son, Ernest Tarr, Mr. Ernest Tarr, who has been so very ill all winter, is slowly improving and is now able to get about a little with the aid of crutches or some other support. It is hoped she will be able to visit her old home in Norway this summer, and that her health will be entirely restored.
The Monahan sisters, May, Martha, Rose and Kate are preparing to move to Gardiner where their sister Annie has been since last fall. The exact day of their going has not been decided but will probably be next week. They are the two ladies who have served the public at the library and telegraph office and everybody is sorry to have them leave town.
Harry Nevers came up from Portland, Fast Day, for a brief visit at home. He went back and played ball with the Bowdoin college team in the game with Colby college at Waterville, Saturday. He is coaching the Portland High School team this season. He has also received offer of a place on the Los Angeles, Cal., base ball team, which is one of the best on the Pacific coast, but probably will not take it, as it would interfere with his graduation from the Maine Medical college, this year.
Ernest Tarr, superintendent of the Radcliffe shoe factory, is making many improvements and changes at Nervease, his summer cottage by Lake Pennessesewas. Rustic fences, bridges and seats have been built, and he has bought two lots, one on each side of his original lot. Mr. Tarr has also built a large two-story building on the Water street side near the outlet of the lake just above the village. This will be used as a club house. The upper story will be occupied by about half a dozen gentlemen as a private club, the lower story as a boat-house and more of a public club room.
The men served a clam supper at Concert hall, Wednesday evening. The dinner was very palatable. The usual extras, cake and pastry, were supplied in the usual profusion. An entertainment was given, which comprised readings by Prof. Verne M. Whitman, piano duets by Virgil Maloney and Claudine Maloney, vocal duets by Mrs. Frank Kimball and Mrs. B. F. Bradbury, and a solo by Miss Maloney. Each selection was very fine and heartily enjoyed. There was a large crowd of people present.
The presentation of Sidetracked, Monday evening, was even better than at times the same company have put on. The show here before. The company is an excellent one, each one being well fitted for the part they took, and filling the position well. The play is a strong drama along traditional lines, and is not merely a background for a host of variety acts in large number. The German comedian, Irish policeman and above all the tramp were very amusing, while the latter introduced some contortion and tumbling feats that were fine. There was a very large attendance.

DON'T BE FOOLED INTO DOING SOMETHING ELSE.

"After what I have taken and done it is no wonder I am glad of an opportunity to recommend what cured me to my friends."

I suffered intense agony from gravel for nearly fifteen years.

For five and six weeks at a time I could not work, the pain was so great. My kidneys and bladder were in horrible shape. My back ached so I could not sleep. I had no appetite at all.

I tried about every doctor in Syracuse but they failed to help me.

I used nearly all the advertised medicines without any benefit.

This was my discouraging condition when I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I used only four bottles and I consider myself cured. I have no backache at all, no pain in passing urine, my appetite is splendid.

It helped me from the start and I gained twenty pounds in weight.

Fishermen's Tales.
Spring-time comes again with treasures in the sea. When the angler casts his skiff from the shore; He hies him away to brooklet and stream, Seeking the fish beyond the water in a dream.

From over the hilltops, down in the deep, Where the bright beauty-ships his vigils keep, Seeking the buster of the wondrous sea, Many times measured with his measured eye.

So many times caught, but never to land, Why, bless me! a big one, you understand; This is the way that the fisherman's tale is told, That fishermen's tales are ever too long.

Why, yes, you know him, he ever is found Feeding and feeding the fish that he would, But we'll let him revel while yet he may, Since license to fish is not far away.

Friendship's Triumph.
Because of thee, I'm happy all the day, Dispensing food, and driving care away; The joys that flow from life with cheer, Like the oases in a desert drear.

So brighten life that toil is sweet, And lightly pass the moments fleet, Because of thee.

Because of thee, no shades of night appear, No lonely midnight hours draw near; I see before me, as I sleep, The dawn that turns the wheel of life and time, Bringing sweet sympathy and peace, And bidding me to cease to grieve, Because of thee.

Because of thee, no wilderness I fear, No dreary wastes of loneliness are here; I see before me, as I sleep, The dawn that turns the wheel of life and time, Bringing sweet sympathy and peace, And bidding me to cease to grieve, Because of thee.

As Ye Have Sown so Shall Ye Reap.

In the great struggle going on between corporations and organized labor there are two sides to the question, and the sum and substance of the whole matter is "human greed."

In the days of our youth we toiled for wages or we employed labor by mutual agreement of employer and employee. A change came when corporations to increase their profits imported the foreign labor to compete and out the price of the home product.

The old axiom that "money rules" carried this to excess.

Then again came a time that the employees of a corporation must vote according to the views of the corporation or as the saying went "pack their kit" "boycoot" if you please.

Strikes were inaugurated as prices were advanced on the products of corporations, causing more expensive living for the toiler, this way the case in the late coal strike. By reason of the beef trust, meats went beyond the reach of the poor, as did nearly all the essentials that enter into men's living. The employees asked for a rise of 10 per cent, a mere bagatelle.

"We will arbitrate," said the operators. Think of the suffering and expense this entailed all over the country, and peopled it because, "money rules."

After gauging the temper of the people to the breaking limit, with a loss of millions all over the country they decided to submit. Still there are strikes, and strikes, and timeservers as ever are crying out in favor of corporations because "money rules," we meanwhile denouncing organized labor as a menace to our institution by reason of assumed arrogance.

Corporations fought labor with the black list, and quite successfully for a time, and many times for the mere privilege on the part of the laborer of exercising the prerogative of changing location or employers.

The operators have managed to keep a reserve of hungry miners to take the place of strikers and as hunger is a great known factor to human action, good or bad, hence they have no scruples in occupying as soon as a vacancy exists nor have they in a little while against striking and thus the game goes on.

It is accredited to President Roosevelt the settlement of the coal strike, and later advice given to show that he became the trust buster. Has he come to feel the terrors of a revolution? This will do for President Roosevelt, for he is a factor in the political world, but for a man of smaller influence, a non-dispenser of patronage, advocates a change he is at once denounced.

Now if organized labor has become arrogant, and a dangerous factor who is to blame? With the ever existent principle of human greed implanted in the human breast (and beast as well) with the teachings of corporations in black-listing or boycott, ignoring at times the rights of the poor, the progress of imperialism, with evident concentration of capital in the hands of a few, what else can be expected—Ye shall reap as ye have sown—One who has sold and bought labor.

To Supply the Railway's Demands. The past year has been one of great advancement in all mechanical lines, particularly so in railway affairs. It has been impossible for the manufacturers to produce enough cars and locomotives to supply the demand and yet the number completed last year was almost fabulous. Something like 198,700 cars were sent out from American shops and of this number over 3,400 were for passenger service.

Think of almost three thousand five hundred luxuriously furnished passenger cars built in one year! Not half enough engines could be produced and the construction exceeds 4,000.

These supplies were for both public and private lines and many of the locomotives were carried to foreign countries.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts out the sound, and the hearing is lost. Unless the inflammation is removed, the hearing will never be restored. Deafness is a local condition, and it is entirely local. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is removed, the hearing will never be restored. Deafness is a local condition, and it is entirely local. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is removed, the hearing will never be restored.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Linen Manufacturing Co.

The Linen Manufacturing Co. at Snow's Falls have been blasting daily for several weeks, first in removing the great ledge which stood between the Grand Trunk railway and their canal and which prevented the siding from reaching the mill. That ledge is now entirely gone. Now the blasting proceeds from the side of the hill where they are making a channel for a large 6 inch pipe which is to connect the reservoir with the piping, automatic sprinklers and hy-drants in and about the mill. When the connections for this pipe are made, no town or city can supply a better water system for putting out fires than the Linen Manufacturing Co. will have under their own control.

Two deeds have been recorded this week in favor of the Linen Manufacturing Co., one for a tract of land below the mill the other from Chas. F. Buck of the land which is covered by the reservoir and the entire top of the hill which furnishes the reservoir with water.

The directors, so we are informed, at their last meeting voted to build a large new bleach house, 100x80 ft. two stories high and to equip the same with modern improved apparatus and machinery, which runs to the value of many thousands of dollars. We understand that they also voted to erect a store house on land which they have leased from the Grand Trunk Railroad, which is to be a one story building about 300 ft. long and 50 ft. wide. They will start upon these buildings as soon as the lumber which they have already under contract arrives here.

Tests have been made in one of the large mills for spinning the fibre, as produced by this company, with perfect success. The yarn made and samples of which we have seen in the office of the Linen Manufacturing Co. are pronounced by expert users to be superior to those imported. The process is fully protected by several patents, one of which contains 200 claims, and they have also taken out patents in 22 foreign countries.

In general, the enterprise has proven as successful as originally predicted and is fast growing in value and importance.

$150,000 Gift to Hebron Academy

The late Mrs. Phoebe R. Sturtevant, wife of B. F. Sturtevant, founder of extensive iron works in Jamaica Plains, Mass., has left by will $150,000 to Hebron Academy. Before this she had given more than $80,000 to the institution.
With an endowment of $200,000 Hebron becomes the wealthiest academy in Maine.

Among the donations that Mrs. Sturtevant has made to the institution in the past were the following:

She made possible the erection of Sturtevant Hall in 1891 by the subscribing $35,000 towards it, the total cost being $125,000.

In 1890 she gave a girls' dormitory, costing $100,000.

She has also paid the salary of one of the teachers at the academy, also the salary of an instructor for the boys in the gymnasium.

She has paid the insurance on Sturtevant Hall, and last year paid $1,000 towards the interest on the debt.

Last year she also installed electric lights throughout the institution, the power being brought from Mechanic Falls. This was at a cost of $2500.

It is believed that the total amount of these gifts is the largest sum ever given by a woman to an institution of the same grade as Hebron Academy in the United States.

The $150,000 of the bequest will, by her wish, be used for an endowment fund for the strengthening of the faculty and the improvement of the course of study.

This sum makes the total amount of Hebron Academy's endowment fund $350,000.

It is probable that April 17 will be set aside each year at Hebron Academy as a Sturtevant Memorial Day, this being the date of the death of both Mr. and Mrs.
Sturtevant, Mr. Sturtevant having died a number of years previous to the death of Mrs. Sturtevant.

Letter to V. W. Hills.

NORWAY, MAINE.

Dear Sir: Here's what "fewer gallons" means:

Mr. N. Avery of Delhi, N. Y., owns two houses exactly alike. He painted one with a mixed paint—took twelve gallons. Painted the other with Devco—bought twelve gallons and had six gallons left. Same painter—George Gilbert. The secret is: Devco Lead and Zinc is one hundred per cent. paint; the mixed paint was about fifty per cent. paint and fifty per cent. adulteration.

Here is an analysis of a mixed paint sold in your neighborhood:
Lead, zinc and color 41 per cent.
Lime and China clay 59 per cent.
You see 59 per cent. adulteration. What is it for?

To fill the can; to take unfair advantage of your very natural and right desire to make your house-painting cost as little as possible.

The cheap paint is Devco Lead and Zinc, because it is all paint—no expense for anything else—and it does not waste your money.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devco & Co.,

Sons of Temperance.

The 50th annual session of the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance of Maine, was held at Oxford, Wednesday and Thursday, April 22 and 23.

A good representation was present from the different Divisions of the State. The Grand Division degree was conferred upon five persons. The most interesting part of the work of the order in the line of temperance and prohibition. Resolutions were adopted in opposition to Re-submission. One very pleasant feature was the presentation to Mrs. Annie L. Hayes, for many years Grand Scribe, a solid gold jewel of her office.

The Oxford Division entertained the guests most royally.

A fine entertainment was given the visitors on Wednesday evening, by local talent, with the aid of Edward Quinn, a fine electioneer from Portland. Mrs. M. E. Roberts of Portland also gave some good readings. The following are the officers elected:

About a year ago she sold her old farm home at Northwest Bethel and purchased a house at South Bethel, where she has since lived with her son Almon. Upon the old farm at Northwest Bethel, now owned by Fred and Asa Howard, is located a willow tree that is said to be the largest tree in Bethel. Women's Clubs Are to Do.

The officers of the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs have decided to pay special attention to a new and, they think, important line of work for the coming year—the different phases of civic improvement. They believe the greatest good can be accomplished if the women's clubs should take up the work best adapted to their own community, and to that end have prepared a list of subjects from which the clubs can select those best fitted to their wants:

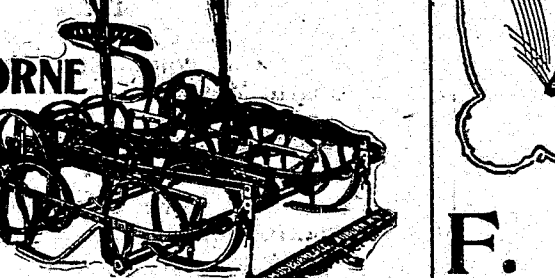

- Arbor day recognition.
- Art in public schools.
- Artistic home painting.
- Beautifying school grounds.
- Better streets and roadways.
- Children's improvement associations or school improvement leagues.
- Care and utility of vacant lots.
- Educational excursions for children.
- Floral exhibitions.
- Home gardening associations.
- Importance of tree culture and preservation.
- Increased attractiveness of farm life.
- Lectures on civic improvement and nature topics.
- Playgrounds—parks—public squares.
- Preservation of natural features.
- Pleasing church exteriors and surroundings.
- Public stations of comfort.
- Perpetual advertising.
- Pure drinking water.
- Railroad stations and their surroundings (the city square).
- Rural libraries and reading clubs.
- Study of public health and civic beauty.
- Smoke nuisances.
- Traveling libraries.
- To these can be added any local need not here enumerated.

Nervousness and Nerve.

The more nervous a man is, the less nerve he has. That sounds paradoxical—but it isn't; for nerve is stamina. Hood's Saffron gives nerve. It tones the system, perfects digestion and assimilation, and is therefore the best medicine a nervous person can take. You get tired easily, mentally or physically, take it—it will do you good.

from physicians, trying to get relief from attacks of backache. The pain was in the region of the kidneys, and the medicine seemed to relieve me for the time being, but it always returned. If I took cold it was always worse, and at such times I was downright sick. I had a severe attack and used Doan's Kidney Pills. The first

EAST STONEHAM.

James L. Parker.

James L. Parker, whose death has already been printed in this paper, was so well known throughout Oxford County as to need no further mention from us, yet we cannot forbear stating that in his death we lose a well-known townsman, a friend and acquaintance of many years, who will long be remembered. We most cordially endorse the statements already printed as to his strict temperance principles and his well-known loyalty to his friends, and also the many excellent qualities he possessed which we should strive to emulate. Having had the chance to see him often during the years of his failing health and decrepitude, we have been impressed by his great patience and calmness through suffering, which would have tried most men and made them irritable. That he must have suffered much was evident, yet during that time no complaining or repining was ever heard, and he endeavored to give his attendants as little trouble as possible. That he passed away without prolonged suffering, we should be thankful, and amid the scenes of his early years and friends endeared to him by long association.

Two of his sisters attended his funeral viz: Mrs. Christina Plummer of Portland and Mrs. Sarah Couson of Rochester, N. H., also a nephew, Sherman Rand, and niece, Mrs. Eva Jewett of Portland.
In addition to those already mentioned of the Parker family, one brother, Henry M. Parker, resides here in this village; his sister, Mrs. Rachel, is living in Boston, Mass.; and another brother, Arthur Parker, and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Copeland, are living in California.

E. B. Russell is poorly this spring.
H. M. Parker has a new milch cow.
Bad colds and grip have been prevailing in this locality this spring.

C. F. Small is going to have some repairs made in his dwelling house.

David Keniston is moving on to the old Shirley farm at North Stoneham.

The grass is very forward for the season. The roads are dry and dusty.

Christie Parker went to Intervale, N. H., last week, expecting to remain during the season.

A. Littlefield is expecting to put an addition on his stable. He has his peddle nearly painted.

Albert Littlefield was summoned to Auburn one day last week on account of the death of a relative.

Mrs. S. L. Moody, who has been sick all winter, is so she goes out a little when the weather is fair.

Albion Moody gave me the dimension of a big egg laid by one of his hens this spring. The size was 8 1/2 inches by 6 1/2.

Mrs. F. E. Speers has been laboring under a severe cold or grip during the past three weeks and has not fully recovered yet.

Edwin Allen, who has been quite sick for the past two months, is better but still troubled with a cough and has to be very careful about taking cold.

Many of our neighbors are cleaning houses, painting and papering. James Merrill has been painting and papering some of his rooms. They look much better for the labor bestowed on them.

Mrs. Eliza Merrill is very sick, was attacked with a severe pain in the region of the heart, Saturday afternoon, and the doctor was summoned. At present she is in less pain but is prostrated, and a very sick woman.

A very nice yearling heifer owned by Levi McAllister has been sick the past week, poisoned it is supposed by eating lambkill or something found in the pasture. For a while it was thought she must die but by good care and dosing she seems to be getting a little better.

A Postponed Holdup . . .

By EDWIN J. WEBSTER

Copyright, 1901, by Edwin J. Webster

Jack Coyle was discontented. The temperature was 100 in the shade, and there is very little shade in southern Arizona. The sun would not set for an hour. It would be four hours more before the Overland express was due.
So Jack vented his discontent on his partner, Dan Driscoll, the only person in sight.

"Nice work, this," grumbled Jack;
"bring a man out here five hours before the train is due and make him to death. There ought to be half a dozen men for the job anyway," he added querulously.

"That's right," retorted Dan, trying to creep deeper into the shadow cast by the scanty bushes lining the railroad track; find fault because I didn't advertise in the papers, 'Help Wanted For a Holdup.' I suppose you think robbing the Overland express is a sort of pink tea and that there ought to be some one waiting for us with parasols and lemonade. Had we stayed in town much longer, the sheriff would have realized the particular sort of picnic we were planning and provided neckties for a different kind of social function. That's right, jump up and throw things around. If that dynamite is in the way, just kick it."

But Jack, standing so he was concealed, was staring toward the southeast, where what seemed to be slowly moving specks were visible.

"Paches!" he said briefly. "Paches on the warpath! Pass up the glass."

What Jack saw through the glass seemed to interest him greatly. When he had finished his inspection, his face had a queer look.

"They're coming back from a raid;
got some white women prisoners."

The two men stared at each other.
Both were desperadoes with almost every offense in the criminal calendar to their discredit. At present they were waiting for the Overland express.
The rifles and an innocent looking package which contained dynamite showed what they intended to do when the express arrived. But the worst of western outlaws generally has a decided vein of chivalry where a woman is in danger, and when only two men plan to hold up an express train they are not wanting in courage.

"There's thirty or forty of them. I wish we had more of the boys along," observed Jack. But there wasn't much hesitation in his tones.

"Once I went north with the Texas rangers on a 'Pache trail,' said Dan, apparently apropos of nothing in particular; "ran across the bodies of some white women they had captured. Most of them were dead. One was alive, but too weak to tell what they had done. We could see, though."

"We can't do anything until dark," answered Jack thoughtfully. "Then we can follow the trail. They are going sort of in this direction, so we will be able to make it. They'll probably camp for the night. If we can creep up and stampede 'em, all right; if we can't, we'll have to take our chances, but we want to be sure to keep a last bullet in our guns for ourselves in case things go wrong."

As soon as it grew dark the horses were led up from the little gully in which they had been hidden. The girls were drawn tight, and a moment later the white men were galloping in a direction that would cross the Indian trail. They soon struck it, and even in the night it was easy for the experienced plainsmen to follow the track left by so large a troop. After two hours of hard riding Dan Driscoll suddenly slowed up.

"There's the light," he said to Jack.
"They must have felt pretty safe from pursuit to start a campfire. We'll have to leave the horses here. An Indian would hear the galloping long before we got in rifle shot."

The horses were hobbled, and silently Dan and Jack proceeded on foot toward the Indian camp. The odds against them were desperate. They had no definite plan of action and little hope of escaping with their lives. But of course it would not do to leave white women to death by torture without an attempt to save them. When within hundred yards of the camp, Jack lighted his rifle. The dim light from the smoldering fire showed the reclining forms of the Apaches, with two who had been assigned as sentinels sitting, upright, every sense alert.

"We'd better begin firing," whispered Jack. "A 'Pache has eyes and ears' like a cat, and they'll spot us soon. If we fire fast, maybe they will think there's a party and run."

But Dan Driscoll, who had been looking intently at the campfire, laid a restraining hand on his partner's arm, for into the brain of Dan had flashed a plan, full of danger, but promising complete success if well carried out.

"I can't see the women," murmured Dan. "They must be tied to one side.
There's no use shooting. The odds will scatter out of the light of the fire.
They'll know from the flashes there ain't but two of us, and they'll just pick us off. Now listen. I've got the dynamite in my pocket. If we can creep up near enough to toss it in the fire, those red devils will go to their own place in detachments. The women are too far off to be hurt by the explosion, and it probably won't harm us. It's a big risk, but our only chance."

Inch by inch Dan and his partner crawled toward the camp. A few yards more and it would be time to throw the dynamite. Then some almost imperceptible noise aroused the suspicions of one of the sentinels. He sprang to his feet and peered into the night. The white men lay motionless, holding their breath. But they could not deceive the trained eyesight of the Apache, who fired at the spot where he had dimly discerned the crawling bodies.

Then brave after brave leaped to his feet, snatching his rifle. Dan ran forward and hurled the dynamite. The distance was too great. It struck the sand, failed to explode and rolled a few feet, where it lay dimly visible in the glow from the campfire. Dan groaned.
Now the Indians would scatter, he and Jack would be killed, and the women—but he didn't want to think of that.

But Jack Coyle, his rifle at his shoulder, was taking careful aim—not at any of the Apaches, but at a little package which lay unnoticed in front of the fire, and as Dan turned with a curse to ask the reason for his partner's slowness in shooting Jack pulled the trigger.

An explosion which seemed to shake the desert, a glare of white flame, then silence. The campfire was gone, but far out on the plains could be seen scattered brands. Jack had fallen on his face as he fired. Dan had been knocked down by the explosion. As they picked themselves up they could hear the neighing of the frightened horses and the cries of the women.

Both had been too distant to be harmful. But no noise came from the spot where a second before had stood the group of Apache warriors.

"There wasn't a man more than thirty feet from the fire," said Jack, with a little awe in his voice, "and there was dynamite enough in that package to blow up a town."

"There's no use sentimenting over a lot of dead 'Paches,'" answered Dan in businesslike tones. "That shot of yours saved the outfit. The thing to do now is to hustle out the horses and get the women back to town. There'll be a lot of people mighty glad to see 'em."

Far off to the west shone a glow which seemed to be reflected from some rapidly moving object. Jack Coyle pointed at it.

"There goes the Overland. Well, if we didn't use the dynamite quite the way we meant to it came in pretty handy."

Some Queer Orders.

The following are actual written or-

Don't Need an Automobile.

Think of a man starting off at a double-quick for 30 miles without stopping, in overhauling en route and leaving far the rear speed horses and yet doing all this with scarcely any weariness and no injury whatever to his physical system!
And yet Edgar B. Welch of Webb's Mills, Casco, Cumberland county, United States of America, is the being in human shape who time and again has accomplished this feat in his kindred wondered his feat at running, both short and long distances, have made him famous throughout that section.

Of late, however, he has been more conservative in his running, for he is getting past his prime, being now 51 years old. He was always unwilling to take part in public races, but his cross country runs in his younger days were marvels of speed and endurance. Once he beat a pair of fast horses from Raymond to Portland, 20 miles. This from a write-up of this prodigy by C. O.
Stickney of Burlington.
